The Woke Agenda

Running on Fumes

America wins again! Jennifer Granholm and the DOE's plan to regulate washing machines to the point of being unable to clean clothing was struck down on appeal—another loss for the administrative state but a win for hygiene everywhere.

They win by voting with their feet. Five million people have left California, Illinois, and New York. It is the Okie migration, but now in reverse.

Blue States Can't Stop Taxing

ESG is dying. TTP has been following the death of ESG for about two years now, and the mainstream press is finally catching on. Sorry Greta. You have been made redundant.

ESG Is Now Being Labeled As Corporate America's "Dirty Word"

DEI blowback:

Economics and liability claims force airlines to rethink hiring employees based on race and gender and return to hiring for competence, qualifications, and attitude. The power narrative at the top is shifting.

American Pragmatism in action. This is a step in the right direction... If Israel had done this long before Oct. 7, Oct. 7 never would have happened:

Number of Firearms in U.S. Civilian Hands Tops 470 Million

For investors from the Mises Institute, those GDP and jobs figures are misleading because they count government hiring and spending the same as private jobs and spending:

Recession Signal: Private-Sector Job Growth Is Being Replaced By Gov't-Sector Job Growth

More for investors. John Mauldin has some beneficial figures and charts on the Federalie debt. An even easier solution would be to sell off Federalie property to pay off the debt. Treat them like what they are – a soon-to-be bankrupt Ponzi scheme. However, that doesn't solve the spending problem. How about this: pass a Constitutional amendment via a convention of the states requiring a 2/3 vote in both the House and Senate to spend money, with a 1/3 vote in either house – and no signature of the President – to cancel any line-item expenditure at any time...
