

THE TOMB OF TAMERLANE

<https://www.2thepointnews.com/the-tomb-of-tamerlane-4/>

This is the interior of “Gur Emir,” the tomb of Tamerlane (1336-1405) in Samarkand, the great Silk Road city now in Uzbekistan. Tamerlane was the last of the nomadic conquerors of Eurasia, a Turkic-Mongol whose conquests extended from New Delhi to eastern Turkey.

Gur Emir is only one of a multitude of extraordinary sights in legendary Samarkand that make being here a life-memorable experience. We'll be here on a return exploration of Central Asia. We hope you can join us then. (Glimpses of Our Breathtaking World #59photo ©Jack Wheeler)
